

DAILY NEVADA STATE JOURNAL.

VOL. 8.

RENO, WASHOE COUNTY, NEVADA, WEDNESDAY MORNING, JANUARY 9, 1878.

NO. 84.

DIABOLICAL CRUELTY PERPETRATED BY A DOCTOR.

Two Ruined Lives.

Mr. Editor:—I come to you with my tale of woe, although I know that human sympathy is dead within your breast or you would never have been an accomplice in breaking up a happy home and overthrowing an intellect once clear, subtle and well-balanced. I come to you because the spell of the enchanter has been woven around me, and while powerless to break it, my heart longs for sympathy, and perhaps some other of your readers has been affected by the demoniac wrench of whom I complain. Yesterday morning I arose, enveloped myself in dressing-gown and slippers and drawing my easy chair before the fire, picked up the Morning Wrap—the DAILY NEVADA STATE JOURNAL just thrown in the sitting room by Matilda, and assuming my favorite position, with feet on mantle-piece inclined, prepared to investigate the quotations of Ophir and Justice, when my attention was irresistibly drawn to certain lines of equal length and capitalizated beginning. I read a few lines and trembled as with an ague chill. Horror-stricken, yet fascinated, with dilated eyes and bated breath I read on.

My wife entered the room and catching sight of my altered countenance, first screamed for Matilda, and then rushing up to me, caught hold of one side of the paper and anxiously searched for the item that had caused this effect upon her beloved hubby. Her eyes were soon fixed upon the article, and there, motionless as statues, we devoured the monstrous effusion.

Matilda soon came rushing in from the kitchen to see what was the matter, but as my wife and I were for the moment affected too deeply for words, and as our faithful Matilda had never learned to read, she was fortunately saved from the infection. Mr. Editor, I read and re-read that "pom" until its words and forms of expression had burned into my brain and I was almost incapable of any thought unconnected with it.

I finally tore myself away, and mechanically proceeded to my place of business but Oh! Ah! and Alas! when a man asked me what good firkin butter was worth, I responded:

"All my friends were scoundrels, too, Particular he mentioned you."

Again when my clerk asked if he should fill an order for wood and coal for the furnace, I said: "It is a lie, and that you know as well as I." A lady asked me where she could obtain a good second-hand cooking stove, and woe is me I told her:

"When any one that has desire, Can kindle and keep up the fire."

You may judge by this of the state of my mind. I shall sell out my business and with a supply of provisions retire to some lonely spot, and endeavor by penance and fasting to regain my mental health. The desire is strong within me to give vent to my feelings in rhyme after the manner of the Dr.'s ditty. I could rhyme you so eight years together, dinners, suppers and sleeping hours excepted; but aware of the dangers to the community I restrain myself. My poor wife has gone into the court in charge of her friends. Heaven grant that she may recover. Hoping that those who read this too true tale will avoid pernicious literature.

I remain Your Despondently,
J. F. BRENO.

Special Notice.

Having determined on reducing my large stock of goods, previous to stock taking, I will on Monday and following days offer such bargains in dry goods as will convince the public that this is a bona fide sale. Every piece of goods in the store has been marked down to the lowest possible price in order to effect a speedy clearance. This no humbug or mock sale. When we tell you that you can buy goods cheaper than ever before offered in Reno we mean just what we say. NEWS OF THE MORNING.

Good reports continue to come from the Cariboo mines.

The Cabinet is receiving news that the Mexico is friendly and desirous of helping to catch the thieves.

Turkey is still working for an armistice. Russia's terms are unknown.

Maya Bryant has given positive orders at Kearney, the San Francisco "boss" agitator shall not be allowed to enter the City Hall. This is because of his recent abuse and misrepresentation.

The Danube is completely frozen over.

D. O. Mills is the banker alluded to as having bought the great amount of 1 cent U. S. bonds.

The San Joaquin Tunnel—Adolph Sutro says his tunnel will reach the Comstock in five months from date. He says that were the mine owners so disposed, however, a connection could be made in about thirty days between the Combination shaft and the tunnel, as the drift connecting the Chollar Potosi mine with the Combination shaft on the 1785 level is nearly complete, and the mines on the Comstock level, from the Utah on the north to the Baltimore Lode on the south, are either all connected or could be in a short time.

Mr. Sutro is of the opinion that all the mines on the lode could be connected with the tunnel and diameter through it in less than sixty days, if an under funding were arrived at between the tunnel company and the mine managers.

Concerning the bulkhead in the tunnel east of Shaft No. 2 of which so much has been said. Mr. Sutro said that it was not completed. From four to six had been at work upon it for about three months. They were stone masons, and their work was necessarily very slow, but it was nearly completed now, and the carpenters were making the gates, of which there would be two. Mr. Sutro's intention is not to close the bulkhead at present, however. He will complete the tunnel to the Comstock and then, if no understanding is arrived at he will shut the gates and let the mining companies take care of their water.

The Locom.

The Locom. met last night after their holiday vacation and most of the members were promptly in their seats, ready for business.

The Committee on Education reported on the resolution inquiring into the expediency of dividing Reno School District and recommended a partition of $4,000 to erect a primary school building in some other location in Reno.

Mr. Shoemaker's resolution disapproving the principles on which the office of New Orleans was bought, was laid on the table without debate, Mr. Shoemaker being absent.

Resolution No. 7 approving the civil service policy of the President was debated by Messrs. Hatch, Hutchins, Fulton and Cossett. After a spirited discussion the resolution went over till the next meeting and was made a special order.

Resolution No. 9, limiting the office of President of the United States to one term was referred to Committee of the Whole. Adjourned.

GENERAL NOTES.

Dispatches from various points in New England show the cold intense, ranging from 24 degrees below zero at Nashua, New Hampshire, to 12 below at Fort Pownall, Maine along the Hudson the thermometer marks several degrees below zero. In New York it is 14 degrees above zero and becoming colder.

The three card monte men who were recently driven off the line of the Union Pacific at Sidney are now operating at the Union Pacific transfer, on the Iowa side of the river. At that point they beat a Californian out of $500 on Friday last, and Monday afternoon they robbed a passenger en route to Virginia City, Nev., of $160. Travellers will do well to look out for these sharpers.

Arrangements are being made by Admiral Rogers, Superintendent of the Observatory, for the observation of the transit of Mercury over the sun's disc, which will take place on the 6th of May. The transit will be visible from 10 o'clock in the morning till 6 in the evening, and can be seen in New York very well, but by far the best point of observation will be on the Pacific Coast, and a party will accordingly be stationed at San Francisco to make careful observations.

The absurd report comes from Paris that Bonaparte MacKay is to be come Count de MacKay by purchasing an Italian Earldom.

Boston owes $13,854,441, and New York City debt is $117,741,050.

Eastern dispatches contain a statement professing to come from a San Francisco banker, now in the East, which represents that a San Francisco syndicate is about to be organized to purchase the four per cent United States bonds which Secretary Sherman was unable to dispose of to the syndicate now existing in the East. The same person is represented to have said that 100,000 of the proposed new silver dollars will be required on the Pacific Coast, enough to keep all the mints running for the next three years. The President of the Nevada Bank, who has been interviewed on the subject, characterizes both statements as being preposterous. He states that the Nevada Bank would readily join in a syndicate confined to the Pacific Coast.

The San Joaquin learns that the agent of the Arlington moneys of Reno has disposed of 1,000 shares and fractions to S. B. P. Pierce and $600 to C. W. Hinckley, besides a great many smaller lots to other farmers in Paradise Valley.

The Grand Prize Mining Company has declared a dividend of one dollar per share.

The Chollar Potosi Mining Company has levied an assessment of three dollars per share.

Nevada is one of the States without a representative in the diplomatic. Texas and Florida are the others.

The total yield of the bonanza mines for December was $3,188,866.97.

The stock of the Central Pacific Railroad Company has been listed on the San Francisco Stock and Exchange board and was called yesterday for the first time. Eighty five was bid.

IL CONTE DI MACKAY—A FORTUNE ESTIMATE OF A BINNING KING'S WEALTH.—The New York Surve says a report comes from Paris that the C. B. M. L. L. J. W. Mackay is going to buy a papal tiara and become "Il Conte di Mackay." He has lately bewildered everybody by the extravagance of his living, and some of the newspapers have been computing his fortune together with the fortunes of the two richest men of the civilized world. The table shows a heavy balance in his favor. The capital of the Duke of Westminster is estimated at £16,000,000, Rothschild, £40,000,000, Mackay £55,000,000. The total income for a year of the Duke of Westminster is £80,000, income for a year of Rothschild, £200,000, income for a year of Mackay, £275,000.

UNDER the laws of Pennsylvania a seamstress can take a dress not paid for off the back of her debtor. This is one reason why dress-makers bills are promptly paid in that State.

SENATOR Jones is sacrificing every thing for votes in favor of the silver bill.

CHANGES IN THE U. S. SENATE.

In a retrospective editorial on the great and good men who have, in the Senate of the United States, made this country celebrated among the nations of the earth, the Cincinnati Enquirer has the following, which we give to our readers as a bon mot:

REMOVAL.—Yankee Dodge has removed to the store formerly occupied by Misses Brown & Harney where he will be pleased to see his friends and patrons. He will keep constantly on hand a general assortment of Yankee notions and fancy goods cheaper than any other house in Reno. We will have an auction sale every Saturday evening. Be sure and give us a call before purchasing elsewhere. Don't forget the place, opposite the Reno Opera House.

There have been other changes since the Senate met in December, 1860, the Government runs on and on while the grave takes the Governor. To the man familiar with the Senate of that day the change death has made in the body that itself never die have a melancholy interest.

Of those who were then Senators but two are Senators to day Hannibal Hamlin, of Maine, and Henry B.

Anthony, of Rhode Island. Notwithstanding the long term of the Senator who serves for six years, and the tendency to re-elect, of the seventy six Senators to day but two were

Senators less than three times six years ago Pitt Lessenden was in the Senate then, grim, keen, commanding but misanthropic, seeming to have a spirit against mankind.

Lessenden is dead John P. Hale

was there, brave, eloquent witty

able to state his case with great force

and clearness Hale is dead Henry

Wilson was there, politic, tireless,

ambitious making more of his native talents than almost any man in our history, and Wilson is dead Summer was there the student of the Senate, the man who alone in the Senate was able to summon all his talent and all literature to prove his point. Massive in his vanity, isolated in his tastes and life, and Sumner is dead William H. Seward was there, who had been for ten years the ideal of a great following, and was the statesman of his party in 1860.

Seward is dead Stephen A. Douglas was there, his Democracy pure and simple and running through the warp and woof of his nature, his loyalty to the Union so deep seated

that not even disappointed ambition,

always the destroyer of the best things in men could shake it.

"I am ready to act with any party, who will come to this question with an eye single to the preservation of the Constitution,

and the Union said Douglas in those trying hours Douglas is dead

Andrew Johnson was there, his voice of the bravest and Andrew Johnson is gone George E. Pugh was there,

fresh from the scenes of Charleston,

that shrill tenor tone ringing like a silver bell through the Senate

Chamber, clinging to the Union and to peace with tenacity, but to this beef with defiance, and that brilliant

man steps Jefferson Davis was there saying, "If I could see any means by which I could avert the calamity of a struggle between the sections of the Union, my past life

I hope, gives evidence of the readiness with which I would make the effort. If in the opinion of others,

it be possible for me to do anything

for the public good, the last moment

while I stand here is at the command of the Senate. I will serve on the committee of the Senate whose

there were thirty three States then there were other shining names in the list of Senators. There were names less illustrious that take place in our history. R. M. T. Hunter, M. J. Mc-

son of Virginia, Robert Coombs,

John J. Crittenden, Jesse D. Bright,

Ben Wade, Lyman Trumbull, Yale

of Florida, W. H. F. Verplanck, Benjamin and Shadell, and others were then Senators. The graves have opened and events have shifted the leaders. The States have been added to the Union since that time

ten Senators have been added to the Senate of those ante bellum days.

The Senate never dies, but how changed is it!

THE PACIFIC RAILROADS.

The total indebtedness of the Pacific Railroad to the Government was, on October 31, $93,117,198. Of this sum $28,493,685 represents in trust. It would seem that, in common gratitude, the companies would from their immense earnings pay their interest, but they hold that it is not due until thirty years after the time their bonds were issued, and so far, they have managed to evade payment. At the same time the owners of the Central Pacific, under the name of the Southern Pacific, are very proud of pointing to the fact that, unaided, they have built a road clear to the Colorado. Instead of paying their debts, they use their tremendous revenues to crush out competition, and they call the attention of the people to the noble work they are performing. This we believe, is perfectly natural. Great wealth, obtained without any corresponding effort, tends generally to make men utterly selfish. Of course, rich men have their followers who laud all their acts. Then little characters are magnified and their meanesses are covered up, until at last we assume that there is a divinity about their wealth, and that they can do no wrong. So, we presume, that Stanford, Huntington and Company really believe they have done a very noble act in building with the people's money a railroad to the Colorado, although their only object in building the road was to prevent all competition, and squeeze, in extra tariffs, from the people of the Pacific Coast, the full cost of the road every seven years for all time to come. During the eight years that the Pacific roads have been in operation, their net earnings have been $98,000,000. From these figures our readers will see how much charity entered into the plan of building a new road, so as to place a perpetual mortgage on the trade of Arizona, and effectually kill any attempt to ever create an opposition on this coast.—Enterprise.
